

ABSTRACT

In one embodiment, a method for structuring a transaction between a first party having a long position in a security and a second party is provided. In another embodiment, a method for structuring a transaction involving a first party having a long position in a security, a second party acting as a transaction facilitator, and a third party desiring to acquire short exposure to the security is provided.

10

[illegible]

{B0271.DOC;}